

In October 2011 BT Buddies was honoured to be able to present our inaugural Inspirational Young Person of the Year award to an amazing 6 year old in recognition of all he does to help his ill Mum.

Callum Hart offers vital support to his mum Debbie White, who is battling a brain tumour. He was just two when his mother was first diagnosed but has shown maturity beyond his years in dealing with his mum's condition.

Young Callum comforts his mum and calls for help if she takes unwell or has a seizure at their home.

And now the Daily Record has recognised his efforts by presenting Callum with a Our Heroes award at a star studded event earlier this month.

The event honoured people across Scotland that have gone above and beyond to help others and we are thrilled that players from Callum's favourite football team, Celtic, were able to present Callum with his award. You can read more about the award ceremony here.

Everyone at BT Buddies would just like to say a BIG congratulations to Callum on this latest award, you deserve it 'wee' man!

The BT Buddies Inspirational Young Person of the Year award will now be given out annually and named the Callum Hart award, in Callum's honour.